

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION SUGGESTIONS

Based on his observations and interview, in this final chapter, the present writer concludes that:

1. Games and songs are suitable techniques in teaching English vocabulary to children.
2. The teachers should create a pleasant atmosphere from the beginning of the class to arouse the students' interest. Moreover to make them follow the lessons enthusiastically, the teachers can greet the students before entering the class then they can start the class.
3. The students in Tumble Tots are very enthusiastic in learning English through games.
4. The teachers always encourage the students. They always say 'Nice try.' if there are some students who cannot finish their tasks or make a mistake in doing their activity. Then, teachers will explain what the students should do.

The present writer also has a suggestion, in order to maximize the result of the teaching process, the teachers should limit the use of translation. This is to avoid students' dependability that will be hard to cure. It is better to use the translation only when the teachers explain difficult words or long and complicated instructions.
