

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background of the Study

Working as a script writer in radio industry means I have to be able to translate some text. As stated by an article entitled "What is Translation" which says "Translation is the process of transferring written text from one language into another" (par. 1). The important thing is to convey the message clearly and accurately. Working as a script writer in Autoradio 88,9 FM Bandung required me to find the information from foreign countries, it means that all the information that I got was not in Bahasa. Therefore, I should translate all the information into Bahasa to give the information to the listeners. Besides, working as a script writer means I must be ready with all the deadlines given by the company. As stated by Lobal "To succeed in this field, you will need good organization and time management skills. The ability to meet deadlines and set priorities is very important as well" (par. 8). Thus, one of the ways to be good in translating is to deal with all the requirements.

I was interested in radio industry, Therefore, I chose to do my internship at Auto Radio 88,9 FM Bandung as a script writer. Based on my experience when doing this internship, I had a difficulty to translate English articles effectively everyday. During my internship I should translate nine English articles everyday. I found that translating nine English articles in the limited time is the biggest problem that I had during my internship. In my office I needed the computer to finish the job. When I wanted to use the computer, sometimes there were other people who were using the computer. It took my time for a while whereas, I did not have much time to finish the job. If I did not finish the task by the deadline, the segment could probably change and it would affect my performance mostly to my partner.

I found that it was not easy to translate nine English articles everyday with the limited time. Thus, I decide to choose that problem as the topic of my term paper. Hopefully, I can find out the causes and the effects of the problem. On top of that, I can find out the solution of that problem in my term paper. I will present the analysis in the next chapter.

B. Identification of the Problem

The problem I am going to analyze in this paper is formulated in these questions:

1. Why did I have difficulties in translating English articles effectively as a script writer in Auto Radio 88,9 FM Bandung ?
2. How did the problem affect my working performance as a script writer ?

3. How should I overcome the problem ?

C. Objectives and Benefits of the Study

The first objective of the study is to find out the causes of my difficulties in translating English articles effectively as a script writer in Auto Radio 88,9 FM Bandung. The second objective is to find out the effects of my difficulties in translating English articles effectively as a script writer in Auto Radio 88,9 FM Bandung. The third objective is to find out the best solution to overcome my difficulties in translating English articles effectively.

The benefits of doing this research for the institution is hopefully Auto Radio 88,9 FM Bandung will have the reference to choose a good employee. Also Auto Radio will get more knowledge about translator industry. For the readers, I hope this term paper will become an optional reference and give them insights about translations. As the writer, this term paper will help me to get more knowledge about becoming a good translation ;morover I hope this term paper will be useful for my personal references in the future if I work as a translator.

D. Description of the Institution

This data is based on the Auto Radio company profile. Auto Radio was established on August 8th 2005 under PT SWARA AUTO GRAHA. The
