ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First though not foremost, I thank God or some deity that my birthright religion has, for his/her guidance and for giving me strength in completing this thesis entitled “Analysis of Suspense, Surprise, and Artistic Unity in Tom Clancy’s Op-Center: Line of Control”, which is submitted to the English Department of the Faculty of Letters in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the ‘Sarjana’ degree. Despite some difficulties, I have been able to finish it. A lot of thanks and apologies are due to my supervisor, M. Melly Kosasih who has helped me in finishing my thesis and for has been patient enough in dealing with me because clearly I’ve been causing her a lot of troubles.

I would also like to thank both of my parents for their support, both morally and financially, prayers, and blessing not just when I was writing my thesis, but also during my whole study in the Faculty of Letters. Hopefully I haven’t spent too much of their life savings. I mean, who knows if they were to buy something like a house but couldn’t because of my overstaying the hospitality of my faculty.

I would also like to thank all of my friends for their support. To my bestfriends Andri Maulana and Talbot Rio, thanks for being great motivators for me. To Christia Adam Ismaya, Rah Agung, and the rest of Sengklek Boys’ members and all of my friends at the English Department, Faculty of Letters, Maranatha Christian University, class of 2010, thanks for these great, long and tiring yet mesmerising seven years. I also thank the people who have helped me in completing my thesis. I cannot mention their names because either I could not recall it or just simply do not care, but thanks anyway for all your support.
