ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Firstly, an endless amount of gratitude shall be expressed to God for giving me His constant blessings during my work on the thesis. Without Him, there would not have been an opportunity to complete this thesis.

Immense appreciation would also be conveyed to my thesis supervisor, Dr. Trisnowati Tanto, M.Hum., for her guidance and help throughout this research, as well as for her absolute patience and support all this time. The counsel and encouragement that she has given me means a lot to me, and I could not possibly thank her enough.

In addition, I would like to address my thanks to my family, who has borne with me all this time, showering me with their eternal love and support in the making of this thesis. Thank you for everything that you have done for me all this time.

Finally, I am indebted to my friends, who I will credit for being my main source of mental support and motivation during my research. I sincerely thank you for all the patience and words of encouragement that you have given me.
