

Analysis of Narrative Techniques in H.P. Lovecraft's Three Short Stories: "The Hound," "The Call of Cthulhu," and "The Thing on the Doorstep"

A thesis
submitted to the English Department of the Faculty of Languages and Cultures in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the 'Sarjana' degree

JESSY
1741021

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT
FACULTY OF LANGUAGES AND CULTURES
MARANATHA CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY
BANDUNG
2021

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This page is dedicated to several people who I have owed to in finishing this thesis. First, I thank my lecturer, Dra. M. Melly Kosasih, M.Si. of Maranatha Christian University for helping me finish my thesis as my supervisor. Due to her guidance and advice, I always make it through every revision.

I also want to thank my friends in Charlie's Angels: Glenn, Sefrina, and Nivia, who have been accompanying me in Zoom meetings on the nights when I work on my thesis. I also want to thank my best friend, Debi, who has been the greatest friend through the happiest and the hardest times.

I also want to briefly thank my family who has been very supportive through this semester when I am writing this thesis during the pandemic.

Moreover, I pay the utmost gratitude to all the teaching staffs in Faculty of Language and Cultures and every party that have supported me in writing this thesis. Last but not least, I thank the author, H.P. Lovecraft, for providing me these short stories that I use as materials to analyze in this thesis.