1. PROFILE JOURNAL

About the Journal

Contemporary Readings in Law and Social Justice publishes mainly original empirical research and review articles focusing on hot emerging topics, e.g., organizational artificial intelligence governance, mobility justice, machine ethics, online privacy protection behavior, big data-driven algorithmic decision-making, network connectivity systems, automation anxiety, surveillance capitalism, social media regulation, sustainable urban mobility in the sharing economy, etc. This journal considers only manuscripts having a high integrative value in the current Scopus- and Web of Science-indexed literature (i.e., citing preponderantly Q1 and Q2 sources published in the past two years). For collective SLR RTs, we may provide a somewhat standard structure and a list of reliable data visualization and (reporting and methodological) quality assessment tools.

Abstract

Banks with state-owned enterprise status carry out operational activities like banks in general, but their activities are not free from various risks. One of them is the risk of consequential losses mismanagement. The study based on the perspective of Limited Liability Companies and Corruption Crimes in this research is an important aspect, considering that often cases involving losses to banks with state-owned enterprise status due to mismanagement often end with different judge's considerations and decisions. This research is legal research (legal research) using normative juridical research. The approach method used is the statutory approach (statute approach) and
