

SUMMARY

Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows

Harry, Ron and Hermione go to find and destroy the last of Lord Voldemort's Horcruxes in which he keeps his soul in order to kill him. However it is a difficult task. They do not even know where they must find it because the horcruxes have already disappeared for a long time and they have no experience at all. Because of their lack of plan, lack of food, and lack of progress, their spirits are often low, and Ron especially becomes argumentative. One night he and Harry get into a fight and Ron leaves to go back home.

Because of their lack of plan, lack of food, and lack of progress, their spirits are often low, and Ron especially becomes argumentative. One night he and Harry get into a fight and Ron leaves to go back home.

Harry and Hermione decide to visit Godric's Hollow in order to search clues, and once again they are almost caught by Lord Voldemort. Ron back a few weeks later and saves Harry's life in the nick of time. They manage to destroy another Horcrux with Gryffindor's sword, and they become excited again as they begin to learn about a mysterious trio of magical objects called the Deathly Hallows. The three deathly hallows are the cloak of invisibility, the resurrection stone and the elder wand. Whoever possesses the three objects will be a master of death.

As his adventures and the dangers increase, Harry begins to understand what Dumbledore intends him to do. Finally, Harry knows the truth from Snape's memory that Lord Voldemort cannot be killed before Harry dies because Harry turns out to be the seventh horcruxes which is made by Lord Voldemort when he killed Harry's mother. He realizes that his own life will have to be sacrificed in order to kill Lord Voldemort. Filled with love for his friends, he willingly gives his life so that they may live.

He meets Dumbledore again in death, and Dumbledore answers many of his questions. He is given a choice to stay or to go back, and he chooses to go back and fight. Then during the final duel between Harry and Lord Voldemort, Lord Voldemort dies because his curse by using elder wand that is given to Harry turns back to himself because Harry is the real owner of the elder wand, and finally Harry and his friends win the battle.

BIOGRAPHY

Ms. J K Rowling was born on July 31, 1965 in Chipping Sodbury, Gloucestershire, England. Her given name at birth was Joanne Kathleen. She has been writing since she was 5 or 6 years old. As a child, she enjoyed writing fantasy stories Her first story was Rabbit, which is filled with interesting characters, such as a large bee called Miss Bee. Ms. Rowling with her family moved twice while she was growing up. While in Winterbourne, she has a friend next door which she likes very much. His last name is Potter. When she was nine years old her family moved again to Tutshill. She graduated from Wyedean Comprehensive and attended Exeter University. She studied French here because her parents encouraged her to be a bilingual secretary. But then she realized that she was not meant to be a secretary. When she was 26 years old she moved to Portugal to be an English teacher. She worked in the afternoons and evenings so that she could be free to write. During this period she began to write a story about ‘wizard’. Then she met and married a journalist in Portugal (he was Portuguese), and her daughter Jessica was born in 1993. But then her marriage ended in divorce and she along with her daughter moved to Edinburgh. During this time she determined to finish her Harry Potter ‘wizard’ novel and to get it published. After several rejections she sold the novel, Harry Potter and The Philosopher's Stone, to Bloomsbury in the UK to support herself and her daughter. After several months Arthur A Levine Books/Scholastic Press bought the American rights to the first “Harry Potter”, and she received enough money to stop teaching and write full-time. She described this moment as the happiest of her life.
