

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

In this chapter, I would like to present the best solutions to overcome the problem. The problem is when doing my apprenticeship as an English teacher at TK Kuntum, I had difficulty in helping some four-year-old students who had a problem in learning and memorizing new vocabulary in English language. The causes are the children lacked concentration during the lessons, they were not familiar with English language as it is rarely used in their daily lives, and I did not know how to teach vocabulary effectively to the children. The effects are I needed more effort and time in preparing the material to help the children to memorize the vocabulary, some children were unwilling to follow the material in class because they found it difficult to keep up, and some children may not enjoy learning. The three potential solutions are the teacher facilitates the students to listen and say the words a couple of times through different activities, the teacher provides various interesting activities such as employing pictures and games, and the teacher gives a test and a reward for those who can answer correctly.

Based on the analysis, the best solution among the three potential solutions are all of the solutions that have been mentioned in the previous chapter. I prefer choosing all of the three potential solutions because the three solutions are important to overcome the difficulty in helping the students to learn and memorize new English vocabulary. The first solution is the teacher facilitates the students to listen and say the words a couple of times through different activities so that the teacher can make sure if the children have memorized the vocabulary or not and the students can enjoy learning the words they are unfamiliar with. The second solution is the teacher will give an interesting activities so that the students will find it easier to remember the new words through playing in a fun atmosphere and the class will not be boring. The three solution is the teacher will give a test and a reward for the students who can answer correctly so that they are trained to improve their memory in the form of test and they will be motivated to answer the test because they will get the reward. Therefore, applying the three solutions to help the students learn and memorize English vocabulary better is needed to overcome the problem, and bring benefits to the students.

To sum up, the teachers, should give their best performance to make their students memorize the vocabulary well. Furthermore, they need to build and rise the quality as well as creativity in teaching kindergarten students particularly in English class. Hence, the students can learn and also get the best education.
