

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

In this chapter, I will choose the best solution for the problem that I faced when I was teaching at Bintang Kecil kindergarten. Based on my analysis about the causes and the effects in Chapter Two, I found the best solution to overcome the problem.

The best solution that I choose is a combination of the two solutions because both of them are very important in teaching. The teacher has to increase the teaching experiences and using games to teach reading to make the students more enthusiastic. From the theories that I read, it is said that the experience of the teacher in teaching will be helpful, because through experiences, the teacher can know how to make the students more enthusiastic in learning reading lesson. Using games to teach reading is very effective for kindergarten students and it will make the students easily remember what they have learned. Because the students still like playing games, it will make them happy and learning process will be successful.

I hope this solution that I have chosen will be the best solution to overcome the difficulties in making TK B students at Bintang Kecil kindergarten interested in reading lesson. Moreover, this solution may be an input for other teachers who find the same problem like I faced at Bintang Kecil kindergarten. If teachers can increase their teaching experiences, it will be helpful to make them successful in teaching and using games to teach reading lesson to the students will be more effective and make the students interested and they will understand the reading lesson easily.
