

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION & SUGGESTIONS

Writing will not be a boring activity if the interest to write is built earlier. First grade students who love pictures are in the right stage to build their writing skills. That is what I find at LLC. The teachers use pictures in teaching writing to make the writing process more interesting so that the students enjoy their writing process. Pictures that help students increase their memory also make the students learn new words faster. Although the students' development varies, with the teacher's support and exercises given, the students can become good writers.

To be brief, the result of the library research that I find really supports the field research that I did. It shows clearly that pictures are very effective to make the students feel excited to write. This exciting condition makes the students enjoy the exercises that the teachers give to make them become good writers.

My suggestions for LLC are I hope that the teachers can maintain and improve their creative techniques to teach English especially writing, so that the students will enjoy the learning process. I also hope that the teaching techniques at LLC, which are one-step ahead from those of formal schools, will make LLC become the finest and the most attractive study center for children to learn writing.
