

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

In Chapter Three, I have described the potential solutions to solve my difficulty in handling a four-year-old boy who sometimes did not want to study. There are three causes of my problem. The first cause is I did not have enough knowledge and experience in handling problematic children in the class. The second cause is I did not get enough information from the teachers about the characteristics of the boy. The third cause is the boy had difficulty in communicating with me because he did not speak clearly and he was younger than his classmates. There are three effects of my problem. The first effect is I felt confused and could not assist the boy to do the task well. The second effect is the boy was moving around the class while the others were studying. The third effect is the teacher let the boy do coloring activity while other students were learning to draw the line. To solve my problem, I have three potential solutions. The first potential solution is I will make a personal approach with the boy to know more about him and give him a personal attention. The second potential solution is I will supervisor to handle the boy. The third potential solution is I will teach using visual aids.

Based on the analysis, the best solution to overcome my problem is the combination of all potential solutions. First, I will make a personal approach with the boy to know more about him and give him a personal attention. Second, I will ask my supervisor how to handle the child. Third, I will teach using visual aids. I chose all the potential solutions because they are all connected. If I only make a personal approach with the boy without asking my supervisor, I will have difficulty to help him to study. If I only make a personal approach with the boy and ask my supervisor without using visual aids to teach, I will have a difficulty in making him interested in learning.

My internship at Angkasa Kindergarten is helpful for me to learn how to teach the children and handle them in the class. My suggestions for the teachers at Angkasa Kindergarten are : the teachers should be patient when teaching the students. The teachers also need to use visual aids to make students interested in learning.
